Will Erect Memorial.

A memorial column will shortly be erected in honor of those who gave their lives in the Great War.

At the council meeting on Monday evening permission was given to the Didsbury Branch of the Canadian Legion to erect a memorial at the top of the Butte, at the fair grounds. A plot of land 40 feet square will be reserved for this purpose. The location is exceptional for such a purpose and when built the memorial will make a landmark that can be seen for miles.

The plans for the memorial are not completed but it is expected that it will be built during July.

Liberty vs. License

The kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, culminating in the finding of the body of the murdered infant, has served to focus public attention in the United States on no other single act has done in past years, upon the extent to which lawlessness has developed in that country. Thousands of people are aroused now who formerly regarded with indifference the daily record of murders, kidnappings, bootlegging outrages, and other gangster crimes including open warfare between these gangs in the streets of large cities, which filled the columns of their newspapers. There is now a searching for causes of this prevailing lawlessness in the United States, but which is not characteristic of other countries.

And in seeking for the underlying cause, investigators have found they had not far to go, and that it is not necessary to delve into any great depths to discover wherein lies the basic weakness upon which present day American society is founded. It is for the people of the United States to apply their own remedies, but the prevailing state of affairs across the imaginary boundary line, and the causes therefore, should have a lesson for the people of this Dominion.

Mistake number one was made in the United States when they went from one extreme to another, that is, from the extreme purification of the early New England thought to the almost uncontrolled license of later days. From an era of unyielding rigid strictness and severity in the application of rules of personal conduct, the United States set up a fetish of personal liberty. In reaction against what had been, the public schools were made purely secular, the teaching of religion, the precepts of the Bible, and the moral law which is founded in true religion, were banned. It was argued that the churches and the home should alone concern themselves with religion and morals, and that the state should not enter such spheres, but, remaining strictly secular and neutral, let youth in its most plastic, character-forming years be trained, or not trained, in the home and on one day in the week in church or Sunday school.

The net result was that millions were not trained, Sunday became a holiday, a day of sports and amusement. The provision of a happy, sensible medium between the austere "blue" Sunday and a day of carnival was overlooked and neglected. And the children of these millions, and their children in turn, grew up in an atmosphere almost entirely secular, pleasure-loving, taught to cater to their personal appetites and passions, rather than to look upon life and its responsibilities as opportunities as a serious thing. But mankind must have a goal to which it looks for those things desired and for which man craves. So, living a life of the present, a life of pleasure and personal gratification, tens of millions in the United States set up and worshiped the Almighty Dollar as their god. The man who could amass great wealth was a "great" man. He was the one looked up to in the community, to whom others paid deference, and who was held up to the youth of the day as a worthy example to follow. The more money a man had, and the quicker he was able to get it, the more successful he was held to be, the more to be envied and emulated.

It was natural and inevitable, therefore, that the ingenuity of men was directed to discovering "get rich quick" means and methods. The morality, the lawfulness of the means and methods were considered less important than the tangible results gained. The methods of "Big Business" of half a century ago, the treatment meted out to the Indians of the western plains where they were robbed, plundered, murdered and their lands taken from them, now have their counterpart in the gangster methods of bootlegging, kidnapping, and all forms of organized vice and crime.

The United States, too, has made a god of "Bigness." The "biggest in the world" is the favorite slogan of their people. Everywhere the boast is heard that this or that is the biggest in the world. In the race to create big cities they have created breeding grounds for crime; in the race to create mammoth mass production industries they have created mass unemployment leading to want and suffering and more crime. The very inventions and machines created for the benefit of their people are now used to assist the criminal element to defy, defraud, despoil and destroy people.

Finally, the United States set up another god in the name of "Liberty," but which was so freely interpreted that it quickly became license. Liberty is a fine thing; it is the birthright of all people although through the ages man has wondrously denied it to his fellow man. Possessing the power for the time being, man has denied to other men liberty of conscience as well as liberty of body and action. But liberty is one thing and license another and entirely different thing. Liberty can only be enjoyed where there is law and order; law impartially but strictly enforced that order may be maintained. Let law be weakened and brought into contempt and liberty is destroyed. Might not right then takes the upper hand, liberty is lost, and all become the slaves of might.

The United States today, to a greater extent than any other nation on earth, is paying the penalty for disregard of the true tenets of all religion and of moral law which is based and founded in these religious tenets, and because it has seen fit to set up other false gods to worship. The worship of the "Golden Calf" sent an old world nation wandering in the wilderness for forty years. It paid for its departure from the truth. Other nations since then have paid. The United States is paying now in the scourge which the lawless elements have developed are now laying upon it. And all nations will inevitably pay if they disregard moral law and replace true liberty with license. That is the lesson for the people of Canada to take to heart.

A complete fishery exhibition will. The cause of most young people be part of this year's agricultural turning out had today is too many show at Grimsby, England. good times.

League Of Nations

Is Greatest Human Agency For Preserving Peace, Says Sir Robert Borden

Expressing the belief that the League of Nations is educating the nations to live in co-operation, Sir Robert Borden, Canada's war time premier, told the League of Nations Society in Canada, at its annual meeting at Ottawa, that he believed the League was the greatest human agency for preserving peace of the world.

Disappointment at the efforts of the League to achieve world disarmament and in the response which had been made to the world disarmament petition was expressed by Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., in a short address.

Dr. H. M. Tory, of Ottawa, was re-elected president of the society and three new names were added to the list of officers. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, was elected honorary vice-president; H. J. McNulty, of Ottawa, became honorary treasurer, and John W. Duggan, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press, Winnipeg, was chosen as a vice-president.

What To Eat

Strict Diets Often Unnecessary

It is a well known fact that some people have a strong tendency to produce excessive stomach acidity, and consequent indigestion. By omitting from their diet those foods that experience proves do not agree and limiting the diet to those foods which are easily digested, stomach troubles may be cured. Nine times in ten, however, indigestion, flatulence, heartburn, constipation and the premature souring of food in the stomach can be cured by eating the foods they like best and as much as they want to eat, and have to stomach trouble at all. Thousands of people do this daily. It is only those who every meal a little indigestion, flatulence, heartburn or constipation, or who are in either period or tablet form. Bismarck, Magnesia, and other laxatives, stomach acids, stop food fermentation and stomach comfort means a lot and most folk like food and sleep to eat. British Buy Canadian Products

British Now Providing Excellent Market For Our Wheat, Bacon, and Cheese

Canada is selling more to Great Britain, detailed figures recently tabulated in the British House of Commons revealed.

British purchases of Canadian wheat in the four months ending April 30 amounted to 9,014,000 bushels, compared with 7,074,000 hundredweights in the corresponding period of 1931. Imports of Russian wheat dropped again. For the month of April, they were only 5,204 hundredweights against 1,337,000 in April, 1931.

Imports of Canadian bacon for the four months ending April 30, amounted to 57,275 hundredweights, a heavy increase compared to 4,693 for the corresponding period of 1931.

Subs of Canadian hams rose from 18,492 hundredweights in the first four months of 1931 to 30,556 hundredweights this year.

Imports of Canadian cheese had a remarkable increase in the four-month period of from 6,385 to 21,095 hundredweights.

Salmon gained from 28,984 to 52,398 hundredweights, unmanufactured Canadian tobacco from 3,880,000 pounds to 6,863,000 pounds (weight).

The total British purchases of Canadian merchandise in the quarter ending March 31, it was also shown, were 48,360,000 against 6,160,000 in the corresponding quarter of 1931.

United Kingdom products exported to Canada in the quarter ending March 31, totalled $3,473,000 against $1,048,000 in the corresponding quarter of last year.

Serious Marketing Situation

British Columbia Growers Export Surplus Of Apples This Year

A serious marketing situation faces British Columbia fruit-growers this year due to the heavy increase in the crops, according to E. J. Chambers, president of the associated growers of the province. Preliminary reports, he said, indicated this year's apple crop would show a gain of a million boxes over 1931.

This means, Mr. Chambers added, that a market for 1,000 carloads would have to be found outside western Canada.

NEW INVENTION
DOES AWAY WITH COOKING ODORS

Even fish and cauliflower bow down to Canapar Cookery Parchment

BETTER, CHEAPER AND EASIER COOKING

Delicious as cauliflower, cabbage and certain other vegetables are, they have caused a heavy penalty on people who fearlessly cooked them. Not to mention those who had to suffer the odor without enjoying the food! Canapar! The same thing is equally true of fish.

Canapar Cookery Parchment, a very ingenious invention, does away with this annoying odor entirely. While sealing odors, it also retains flavor and food value. Cooking in Canapar actually parallels the famous French method of steaming and cooking food and its favor is the closed cloche.

You buy Canapar in a large envelope of handy size which may be rinsed out and used over and over again because they won't absorb odors. When boiling vegetables you simply wet the Canapar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you steam them, you line the steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping back. You can actually cook three vegetables at once in the same steamer, this way—save fuel—and the flavors will not intermingle.

Steamed, or boiled, fish comes out firm, and swimming in its own juice. No odors. No sticky steamer or saucepan to clean up afterwards.

Line your roasting pan with Canapar, then the fat and juice can't burn. Meat is more succulent and there is no scorching or scaping of the pan afterwards.

Many women use Canapar for a dish cloth. It is so silky and satisfactory, that most spread it.

You'll never be without Canapar once you start using it. It saves time and money. Made by the makers of the famous PARASANI Heavy Waxed Paper in the Green Box.

Anglo-American Good Will On Firmer Footing Now Than Ever Before, Says U. S. Paper

There is reason for believing that Anglo-American good will has got its roots struck more firmly into the solid ground of mutual respect and dignity than in earlier periods—even those when the plant seemed to be flowering most luxuriantly. Too frequently in the past one has detected a slight waxiness, a touch of artificiality, about its most brilliant petals. Before the World War the work of our own horticulturists was often tinged with a sense of inferiority and with the envious and irritating that go with it while that of the British was not wholly free from a certain condescension. Amid the dazzling prosperity of the post-war world these roles were, perhaps, reversed. British statesmanship continued to find itself upon Anglo-American ground, but the British people could not quite forgive us for being such a spectacular success in our own way.

Both nations have collapsed amid the sterner realities of the depression. A common adversity has given each people a better appreciation of the real qualities and greatnesses of the other than either enjoyed five years, or twenty-five years ago. The two nations regard each other with less sentimentality than they have sometimes felt, but with much less of ignorant irritation. Publicists who once amused themselves by laboring transatlantic foibles, who wasted their time in warning Americans against entanglement with perfidious Albion or Britons against engulfment in American "muck" production, are now dropping all that. Each nation now eagerly scans the opposite shore of the ocean, waiting to cheer every sign of progress in the other as possibly the first step toward recovery for both. Neither power, in short, is any longer overawed by or afraid of the other, there results an atmosphere in which friendship of the sturdy, unornamented but useful sort can grow and prosper. —New York Herald-Tribune.

Shows That Live Stock Was the Saving Factor Industry Weathered This Year Better Than Other Products of Farm Industry

The Review of the Live Stock Market and Meat Trade for 1931, just issued by the Markets Intelligence Service of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, states:

"The commercial meat animals industry weathered the year much better than any other major branch of farm industry. Indeed, saleable live stock, and with this, of course, we must include poultry, was to its possessor the saving factor in the year's business on the farm. At the opening of the new year, those producers who had included live stock in their 1931 programme, found themselves in a much more advantageous position than those who had not."

Adding Insult to Injury
Tongood's face wore a worried frown as he approached Butler.
"I say, old man," he said, "I am sorry, indeed, that I called you a thimble yesterday."
Butler was ready to forgive.
"Quite all right, old boy," he said hurriedly, "you said it in the heat of the moment, as it were."
"Yes," returned Tongood, "I read in the paper today that a thimble was worth 1200."

"Yes, but only till one of them finds out," returned Butler, "interesting, isn't it?"

Great Booster For Canada

Prince of Wales Advises British Business Men To "Step Right Over"

Canada has a great booster in the Prince of Wales. His is the type of Canadian citizenship which might well be emulated to the advantage of the Dominion. Recently the magazine "Canada," published in London, quoted His Royal Highness as follows:

"Step right over and see Canada for yourself. Remember it takes only six days across the Atlantic and only a few more to reach the Rockies and the Pacific Coast. And if your business cannot spare you, remember there are such things as business holidays."

There is a double intent in the Prince's invitation to the businessmen of the Old Country to "step right over" and see Canada. In it he appeals to their inclination for pleasure, but at the same time does not neglect their business interests. With a suggestion of slyness he tells them to make the one visit on the other, and yet get the advantage of both, and to a man of affairs the possibility is arresting.

There is, as well, a desire to promote a greater interest in the Dominion and its trade potentialities. Quite recently the Prince Minister has made a similar proposal. He would have all the visitors to the Conference in July take a trip through Canada from coast to coast. He believes that were they to do so they would obtain a greater impression of the trade possibilities the Dominion has to offer and of the aspirations of the people. It is a great idea, and it is to be hoped that if their time permits many of them will adopt the suggestion. They may be sure of a very hearty welcome.—Regina Daily Star.

Flight Of Wild Geese

Bird Tagged By Jack Miner At Kingsville Found In B.C.

An idea of the vast stretches of territory covered by wild geese in their migratory flights was revealed in the finding in East Kootenay, B.C., of the charred bones of a goose.

On the leg of the bird, which apparently had perished in a bush fire, was a tag bearing the name of Jack Miner, Ontario naturalist. The bird at one time had sought shelter on the ground in a marshy area at Kingsville, and was fed by Miner. The tag and information concerning the incident were sent to Miner by a settler in an isolated district near where the bird was found.

Birds tagged by the naturalist have been found far and near as the Atlantic coast and from the Gulf of Mexico to Baffin's Land, but this is the first time one ever has been known to cross the Rocky Mountains.

Dominion Poultry Official Believes Prospects Are Still Encouraging

F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman, and outstanding leader in poultry development in Canada, on a recent occasion observed that few people realize what a big part the hen has played in the national life of Canada. "There are many prominent business men today who would not be where they are if it had not been for the hens on the farm at home," he stated. "The poultry provided the money for shoes and clothes and pencils, and were in fact responsible for keeping them at school. I myself do not know of any other business today which pays better dividends than poultry raising, and I believe the prospects are still encouraging."

"Yes, but I understand it was the audience that egged you off."

Future Development Of Western Canada Must Be Planned On a Scientific Basis

Working On Wheat To Resist Drought

University Of Alberta Installing
Equipment For This Purpose

Resistance to drought is a new wheat breeding project which has been undertaken by O. S. Arnold, University of Alberta. Over a period of years, losses due to drought are probably as great as all the plant diseases combined. It has been estimated that during each of the last two years, the crop has been reduced by drought by 75 to 100 million bushels. Owing to the failure of crops to become established there is also the enormous loss in fertility due to soil drifting and the free growth of weeds. The National Research Council has given assistance in carrying out this project which will be under the direction of the associated committee in grain research. Except for some studies made at the University of Alberta on the fundamental nature of drought resistance in plants, little has been accomplished in Canada, but Russia has been intensively studying the problem for some time.

In this work artificial chinooks are created by a machine. This machine has been described by Dr. T. A. Tongue of Russia, and similar equipment is being built at the University of Alberta. In this way everything including moisture, is controlled.

Cheese Is a Body Builder

Supplies a Muscle Building Food In Concentrated Form

Here is an interesting item prepared by the Milk Utilization Service of the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch. "Is cheese eaten for its flavour, or for its food value?" The low per capita consumption of cheese in Canada clearly indicates that the majority of people do not recognize it as a muscle-building food in concentrated form, but consider it merely as a condiment or garnish. It is interesting to note that one pound of cheese supplies almost as much protein and fat as one gallon of milk and, in addition, has a high calcium, phosphorus and vitamin content. The muscle building foods are limited in number, and, since it is necessary that the diet contain a percentage of this type of food, cheese should be more extensively used, particularly at a time when health and strength must be maintained on a lowered food budget.

More than 1,000 new companies were registered in Sweden last year.

Speaking before a service club at Winnipeg recently, T. C. Main, division engineer of water supply for the Canadian National Railways, and consulting engineer to the Saskatchewan Commission on Conservation and Afforestation, warned that future development of western Canada must be planned on a scientific basis.

"Insofar things have been made to happen in haphazard manner. Settlers were allowed to homestead and cultivate land that was entirely unfit for cultivation. Sloughs and lakes were drained; timber and bush areas have been burned intentionally and accidentally, and land has been forced to grow cereal crops until practically all the fibre is gone," he stated.

Chief causes of drought were beyond the control of our present state of scientific development, but anyone who had studied the question of drought in southern Saskatchewan, southeastern Alberta and southwestern Manitoba, would agree that human agency was to blame in a measure, he said.

Pointing to the seriousness of the water situation in the west Mr. Main said it could be proven the southern Saskatchewan and Alberta, and to a lesser degree of Manitoba, would be limited not by the amount of food that could be produced, but rather by the amount of water that could be conserved.

Conservation of water and timber he considered as the two important factors in solving our drought ills. Five factors he condemned—close cutting and over-pasturing of prairie grass; reducing the forest area, chiefly by fires, 90 per cent of which were preventable; draining sloughs and lakes; growing too many cereals in succession; farming land unsuitable for cultivation.

Solutions for drought and soil drifting he gave as follows: planting at least one acre of suitable hedge on each quarter section; strip farming to minimize drifting until hedges are four or five feet high; production of wheat, but consuming less water in growing; a forest policy that will make serious fires impossible; conservation of young tree growth and reforestation so that in 50 years there will be as much timber as at present; stoppage of draining of sloughs, lakes and marshes; storing as much spring run-off water as is economically possible; setting aside of light lands as forest reserves and planting with suitable trees; developing mixed farming; encouraging municipalities to construct public water supplies and the farmers who need them to construct effective dugouts.

Object to Closed Leases.

The attempt of Foothills Rod and Game Club, of Calgary, to obtain special privileges over 9,000 acres in the Burnstick Lake country for fishing and hunting is being strongly opposed by the Didsbury and Olds Fish and Game Associations.

The Calgary club is taking over a grazing lease on the land, and one of the promoters of the club, Mr. H. L. Peterson in a telephone conversation informed Mr. Geo. Julien, president of the Didsbury Association that as lessors of the grazing land they intended to keep all hunters off the property.

The Fish and Game Associations are opposed to any closed leases for fishing and hunting and have the assurance of Mr. R. T. Rodd, supervisor of fisheries that no special privileges would be granted.

This subterfuge of the Calgary club to keep the public from hunting and fishing on any government land through the medium of grazing leases should be blocked at the outset. If this club is allowed to obtain a closed lease on hunting privileges by this means, private interests will be able to obtain hunting ground in the province to the detriment of the general public.

Mr. Charles Hayden, managing editor of the Calgary Herald, who is an ardent sportsman, is suggesting that the Provincial government convert the 9,000 acre lease into a game sanctuary and follow the same policy if necessity again develops.

The Didsbury Fish and Game Association is in full accord with this suggestion.

If it is known that no area can be set aside for private purposes, we believe that there will be no more trouble from private clubs or private individuals sewing up our choice hunting territories.

The Didsbury, Olds and Innisfail Fish and Game Associations will hold a joint meeting at Olds to discuss the matter and present their objections before the Department.

WHERE TO SPEND AN ENJOYABLE VACATION

Canada This Year

SINCE the annual vacation has become a definite part of modern life, the decision as to where it will be spent is of considerable importance. Canada has a particular appeal to the vacationist, for it has an unusual variety of attractions, which may be enjoyed at reasonable cost.

Recreational Areas Easily Reached.

For most people the summer vacation is limited to a few weeks, and is usually shortened by the time taken in travelling to and from the locality selected. Canada has an extensive system of good roads and excellent railway services, which greatly facilitate travelling between provinces.

Attractions Cover Wide Range.

Canada presents a striking diversity of natural features: the rugged and picturesque Atlantic coast; the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes, the world's greatest inland waterway; The Laurentian Mountains, land of forest and stream; the Prairies; the majestic Rockies, and the beautiful Pacific coast. Each of these areas has its own attractions of scenic beauty and opportunities for enjoyable recreation. Fishing, hunting, camping, canoeing, mountain-climbing, may all be enjoyed under ideal conditions, while golf and tennis may be played practically everywhere. Accommodation includes everything from camp site to luxurious hotel. Those to whom economy is a matter of concern may spend a pleasant vacation close to nature at a surprisingly small cost.

Travel Information Gladly Furnished.

The National Development Bureau, Department of the Interior, at Ottawa, has prepared a series of automobile road-maps showing the main routes from one province to another, also a number of interesting booklets, including "Vacations in Canada." These will be sent to any of our readers planning a vacation. Applicants should state the areas in which they are interested.

Compulsory automobile insurance as approved at the last session of the British Columbia legislature will go into effect in B.C. on September 1st according to present plans, it was announced Saturday.

The "doughnut," or super-balloon tire is hovering now in the background of the automotive picture. While the engineers are experimenting and the know-how of the large-sized tire are being weighed, standardization of size is already under discussion by manufacturers. Seven tentative sizes are understood to have been approved by leading manufacturers. Smallest of the seven is 6.50 16 and the largest is 9.00 16.

A motorist who is forced to use the highways a great deal at night makes an urgent plea for voluntary testing of headlamps. The situation, he finds, is very serious from the time highway traffic starts to expand in the spring until a point well on in early summer. Too often, he believes, the spring check-up fails to include a headlight test, with the result that rays of light may be seen pointing upward at a sharp angle, or so much out of line as to be dangerous to other drivers. "No Spring check-up is complete without a careful headlight readjustment," he says.

Hurry Wheat to Elevators To Obtain 5-Cent Bonus

The bonus on wheat given by the Dominion government to prairie growers, of 5 cents a bushel terminates June 30th. The bonus is paid the farmer as soon as he delivers his wheat to a country elevator. Accordingly the only wheat on which it has yet to be paid is that which is still on the farms.

The break in wheat prices in the Winnipeg market Saturday of more than 4 cents a bushel has been attributed by certain observers to wheat pits to be due to some extent to the rush of this grain from the farms to the country elevators. The argument is advanced that the hurry to get in before the bonus terminates has forced the hedging situation in the Winnipeg exchange.

Wheat left on the farms is being hurried to the country elevators, according to information received by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, at the rate of 500,000 bushels a day. There is no telling just how much wheat will be delivered in the next ten days, but the expectation is that at least the present flow will keep up. After the 30th, of course, it is anticipated that very little will be left to be brought to the elevators in view of the loss of the bonus.

It is known that the government is anxious to clear up all the bonus payments before the end of the crop year, which is July 31st.

Strathmore Farm Holds Three Milk and Butter Production Records

When milk and butter are the topic of conversation, attention must needs be directed to the Canadian Pacific Railway's supply farm, at Strathmore, Alta., where three bovine aristocrats have established outstanding production records for 1931, for the whole of Canada. There is little to choose between the three cows; a glance at their pictures tells the story. Excellent stock, well handled, has once more proven its worth.

E. W. Jones, the company's Superintendent of Agriculture and Animal Industry, is justly proud of the achievement. Mona Pontiac Walker—134648—under Government regulation, led all the milk-producers in Canada by over 2,000 lbs., having completed a yearly record on November 27, 1931, with 30,464 lbs. of milk and 1,160 lbs. of butter. In 1930, as a four-year-old, she held another record, with 29,206 lbs. of milk and 1,071 lbs. of butter.

The next highest milk production record for 1931 goes to Primrose Lily Pieje—151147—who also held the butter record for the Dominion for the same year. Her performance was 28,271 lbs. of milk and 1,210 lbs. of butter. She is an outstanding show animal and took first prize in the dry cow class at Vancouver and Victoria in 1931.

The four-year-old production record for Canada, for both milk and butter is held by Strathmore Lady McKinley—143399—accorded her records under Government regulation, in 1931, with 25,369 lbs. of milk and 1,102.5 lbs. of butter. She is a remarkably fine beast of the best of Holstein pedigree, as is shown by her fine lines.

Canadian Banking System

U.S. Senator Praises System Here in Comparison With That of United States

The happy position of Canada's banking system as compared with that of the United States was dramatically placed before the United States senate by Carter Glass, of Virginia, former secretary of the treasury.

Glass was pressing his revision of the banking laws to permit branch banking in the United States.

Canada, he said, had not had one single bank failure "during this frightful depression" while in the United States 5,000 banks had gone under with losses during the past two years to the extent of $2,500,000,000.

For years treasury and currency experts have been attempting to get congress to permit branch banking. Their efforts have been so far successfully opposed by representatives of smaller communities and farming areas who believe in individual and personal banking.

You should know this about oil, says mechanic

The proper oiling of household devices presents a problem different from any other form of lubrication. Sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, the electric motors of washers, fans, refrigerators and similar devices have a tendency to collect dirt and rust when not in service. Consequently oil intended for general household use should clean and protect as well as lubricate.

3-in-One Oil will do these three things. For, unlike ordinary oil, it is really three high quality oils in one: animal, mineral and vegetable. It penetrates quickly, cleans the metal surfaces, "stays put," reduces wear and saves repairs. It also prevents rust and tarnish.

Don't miss the mistake of thinking "any kind of oil will do." Play safe: insist on 3-in-One Oil. Sold everywhere, by good grocery, hardware, drug and general stores. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in red on every package.

Plan Trade Drive

Ontario To Place Sales Representatives In Winnipeg, Montreal and Maritime Provinces

As part of an intensive drive to secure a greater share of the Canadian market, the Ontario Department of Agriculture is placing sales representatives in Winnipeg, Montreal and Maritime Provinces. It was announced by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture. The duties of these representatives, who will work through the agricultural council, will be to keep the department informed as to conditions in the various provinces, the volume of sales of Ontario agricultural products and the best means of increasing those sales.

Col. Kennedy declared that the government was launching a drive for more markets and that up till now much of the effort had been directed toward securing a better foothold in the British market. There was a big field for Ontario products in the other provinces of Canada, he pointed out. As to the British market, the Ontario Government already had a representative in London and at the present time W. B. Somerset, chairman of the agricultural board, was in the Old Country in the interests of Ontario trade.

Modern Robinson Crusoes

Might Be Found If Lonely Islands Could Be Searched

Recently a man returned to his relatives after he had long been given up for dead. Years ago he sailed from his native land to the Pacific, and during an eventful voyage his ship took fire and was abandoned.

Like the plots of many stories, this man with one or two shipmates, managed to land on an uninhabited island and then existed in a manner true to every Robinson Crusoe story.

There is a possibility that scores of travellers and sailors are living on small islands, praying for the day when some small ship, driven well off its course, will pass close enough for its crew to see the smoke signal. Quite a few family sorrows might be eased if all the lonely islands could be searched and their strange inhabitants brought back to civilization.

Evidence constantly crops up at various times to prove that it is not an uncommon fate. In such places as the Pacific, there are thousands of specks of land which are rarely visited. Any of these may be inhabited by one or two people, waiting, year after year, for a rescue ship to appear on the horizon.

Apart from the small islands, there are thousands of places in the world where men could scramble ashore and, although on a mainland, be just as helpless as if on an island in the middle of the Indian Ocean.

There are many sections of coast from which nothing but a bird could escape except by sea. A narrow stretch of sand between two mountains and backed by a cliff of tremendous height, means isolation more hopeless than that of a mid-ocean isle. There are many such spots on the west side of Vancouver Island, B.C.

A man who had been one of several wrecked near Cape Horn, might just as well have been marooned on the loneliest island in the world, for it was impossible to struggle to civilization from their bleak shelter. Weeks and weeks passed before a shiper accident enabled him and his shipmates to be rescued.

Diet Announced As Cure

Celiac, a Childhood Disease, Requires Only Good Food As Treatment

A cure for celiac disease without a drop of medicine was reported to the American Medical Association at New Orleans. Diet alone does it. This disease is one of the pitiful ills of childhood, causing retarded growth, serious stomach disorders, growing weakness and, when too long neglected, almost certain death.

Prohibition to relieve had made it difficult to cope with. Dr. Sidney V. Haas of New York City, said there has not been one recurrence.

The new treatment is an example of the rapidly-developing science of finding in two or three common place articles of food a regulator that enables the body to convert the entire diet into its natural "medicine."

One cause of celiac disease is a peculiar form of sugar starvation. No matter how much sugar a child eats the system cannot assimilate it, and the sweet only makes them worse. Dr. Haas found the sugar in ripe bananas can be eaten freely and that in the children's bodies it converts ordinary sugars into an agreeable form.

A teacher gave the following problem to her pupils: If a woman gathered five eggs a day, how many eggs would she gather in a week? After studying a few minutes, William, with a pained look finally asked: "Miss—do hens lay eggs on Sunday?"

IN BED WITH BACKACHE

"Two years ago I suffered with severe pains in the small of my back, and could with difficulty hold myself upright. At times I had to go to bed for a week at a time. I went to and from hospital for a month, and they certainly did me good, but they told me they could not keep giving me medicine, but that I needed complete rest for 6 months, away from the children. I could not bring myself to be parted from the children, so I did not go to hospital any more. I started using Kruschen salts and they had no trouble with my back since."—Mrs. W. Kruschen contains vital salts that go right down to the root cause of backache. Soon after you start on Kruschen, the sharpest pains of backache cease. As you persevere with the "little daily dose" the twinges become less and less frequent, until finally you hardly know what an ache or pain is. Then, if you're wise, you'll prevent the possibility of a relapse by continuing the tiny, lastless pinch of Kruschen every morning.

She did not tell him why. But within herself she knew that no woman would ever be afraid with Geoffrey Burke. Afraid of him, possibly, but never afraid that he would not be entire master of any situation where physical strength and courage were the paramount necessities.

She reflected a little grimly to herself that it was this very forcefulness which gave the man his unquestionable power of attraction. There is always a certain fascination in sheer, ruthless strength—a savour of magnificence about it, something tentatively heroic, which appeals irresistibly to that primitive instinct somewhere hidden in the temperamental make-up of even the most ultra-twentieth-century feminine product.

And Jean was quite aware that she herself was not altogether proof against the attraction of Burke's dynamic virility.

There was another kind of strength which appealed to her far more. She knew this, too. The still, quiet force that was Tormarin's—deep, and unfathomable, and silent, of the spirit as well as of the body. Contrasted with the savage power she recognized in Burke, it was like the fine, tempered steel of a rapier compared with a heavy bludgeon.

"A penny for your thoughts!" Jean came out of her reverie with a start. She smiled.

"Don't get conceited. I was thinking about you."

"Nice thoughts, I hope, then?" suggested Burke. "It's better,"—noddishly—"to think well of your future husband."

The old pipkin's words flashed into Jean's mind:

"You'll bound together so fast and firm as wedding-ring could bind 'em, and her face flamed scarlet."

It was true, at least as far as she was concerned, that that wedding-ring could bind her more firmly to Blake than her own heart had already bound her.

The instinct to flirt with Burke was in abeyance. It was an instinct only born of heartache and unhappiness, and now that Blake's mood was so much less cool and distant than it had been, the temptation to play with unexpended bombs had correspondingly lost much of its charm.

"Don't be tiresome, Geoffrey," she said wearily. "If only you would make up your mind to be—just plain."

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

I should think much better of you." "Then I'm afraid you'll have to think worse," he retorted.

Just at that moment they encountered a flock of sheep, ambling leisurely along towards them and blocking up the narrow roadway, and Jean was spared the necessity of replying by the fact that Burke immediately found his hands full, manoeuvring a path for the mare between the broad, curly backs of the bleating multitude.

The driver of the flock was, of course, a hundred yards or more behind his charges, negligently occupied in relighting his pipe, so that no assistance was to be looked for in that direction, and as the sheep bumped against the mare's legs and crowded up against the wheels of the trap in their characteristically maddening fashion, it required all Burke's skill and dexterity to make a way through the four-foot crowd.

The chestnut's own idea of dealing with the difficulty was to charge full speed ahead, an idea which by no means facilitated matters, and she fought her bit and fairly danced with fury as Burke checked her at almost every yard.

They had nearly reached the open road again, and Jean, looking down on the sea of woolly backs, with the hovering cloud of hoof-driven dust about them, thought she could fully appreciate the probable feelings of the landladies as they approached the further shore of the Red Sea. And it was just at this inauspicious moment that the driver, having lit his pipe to his satisfaction, looked up and grasped the situation.

Guiltily conscience not only makes cowards, but is also precise in the creation of fools, and the driver, stung into belated action by the consciousness of previous remissness, promptly did the most foolish thing he could.

He let off a yell that tore its way through every quivering nerve in the mare's body, and with a shout of "Round 'em, lad!" sent his dog—a half-trained youngster—barking like a creature possessed, full tilt in pursuit of the sheep.

"That settled it as far as the chestnut was concerned. With a bound she leapt forward, scattering the two or three remaining sheep that still blocked her path, and the next moment the light, high cart was rocking like a cockle-shell in a choppy sea, as she tore along, utterly out of her mind. Luckily, for a couple of miles the road ran straight as a dart, and after the first gap of alarm Jean found herself curiously collected and able to calculate chances. At the end of the two miles, she knew, there came a steep declivity—a typical Devonshire hill, like the hills of a house, which the British workman had repaired in his usual crude and inefficient manner, so that loose stones and inequalities of surface added to the dangers of negotiation. At the foot of this descent was a sharp double turn—a veritable death-trap. Could Burke possibly get the mare in hand before they reached the brow of the hill? Jean doubted it.

There was no sound now in all the world except the battering of the mare's hoofs upon the road and the screaming rush of the wind in their ears. The hedges flew past, a green, distorted blur. The strip of road fed away beneath them as though pulled up by some swift revolving cylinder; ahead, it ended sheer against a sky blue as a periwinkle, and into that blue they were rushing at thirty miles an hour. When they reached it, it would be the end. Jean could almost hear the crash that must follow, sense the sickening feeling of being flung headlong, hurled into space... hurtling down into black nothingness.

Her glance sought Burke's face. His jaw was outthrust, and she could guess at the clenched teeth behind the lips that shut like a rat-trap. His eyes gleamed beneath the penthouse brows, drawn together so that they almost met above his fighting face of a nose.

In an eddy detached manner she found herself reflecting on the dogged brute strength of his set face. If anyone could check that flying, foam-decked form, rocketing along between the whiffs like a red-brown streak, he could.

She wondered how long he would be able to hold the beast to hand on? She remembered having heard that, after a time, the strain of pulling against a runaway becomes too much for human nerves and muscles, and that a man's hands grow numb—and helpless! While the dead pull on the bit equally numbs the mouth of the horse, so that he, too, has no more any feeling to be played upon by the pressure of the bit.

Her eyes dropped to Burke's hands. With a little inward start of astonishment she realized that he was not attempting to pull against the chestnut. He was just holding... holding... standing her, ever so little, in her mad gallop. Jean felt the mare swerve, then, swing level again, still answering faintly to the reins.

Burke's hands were very still. She wondered vaguely why—now—he didn't pit his strength against the bit against the tender corners of the mare's mouth. Jean was conscious of a faint difference in the mad pace of her. Not enough to be accounted a check—but still something, some appreciable slackening of the whirlwind rush towards that blue blur of sky ahead.

It seemed as though Burke, too, was then, as she watched Burke's hands, she saw more, first one and then the other, sawing the bit against the tender corners of the mare's mouth. Jean was conscious of a faint difference in the mad pace of her. Not enough to be accounted a check—but still something, some appreciable slackening of the whirlwind rush towards that blue blur of sky ahead.

"When I was 10 I was so ill my people thought I was going to die," writes Mrs. Annie Wilson, Sussex Ave., Toronto. "I had scarcely any blood, and was so weak I could hardly walk. Had no appetite and I lost ground every day for a long time until a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got them, and before I had finished the first box I was feeling much better. I continued taking the Pills until I was completely well. I went to all the dances and had the time of my life again. I certainly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any one who is anemic or run-down in any way, for they certainly rebuild my health."

Baltimore Repeals Old Laws

Made When State Was Founded Two Hundred Years Ago

Baltimore, by the largest vote ever given a question or a candidate, has repealed its 200-year-old Sunday observance laws, which even precluded a man's kissing his wife on the Sabbath.

By a majority of more than 83,000, the city wiped off its books the Sunday laws which were born with the Maryland legal code when the Calverts founded the state, and for the first time, can go to moving picture shows, sport events, and make certain retail purchases legally next Sunday.

Free Time Tables

Should the Canadian railways make a charge to the public for time-tables? This point was raised in the Commons Railway Committee. In Great Britain a small charge is made, but Sir Henry Thornton doubted if it would be possible to do so in Canada. The universal custom on the North American continent is to provide time tables free. The result is that very often they are taken by people who do not require them.

Peevish, pale, restless, and sickly children owe their condition to worms. Mother Gray's Worm Exterminator will relieve them and restore health.

Community Picnic

To be Held in August

On account of the Legion Field Day being postponed to June 15th and the Agricultural Fair closely following, it has been decided to hold the Community Picnic in August this year. The big day will be something to look forward to.

Burnside Notes.

Burnside U.F.A. will meet Monday evening, June 13th.

Lone Pine W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Bert Pross on Thursday.

Mr. Julius Hehn, of Tigard, Oregon, spent a week-end recently with his sister, Mrs. C. R. Liesemer.

Master Tommy Patterson's arm is healing nicely after having broken it several weeks ago in a fall from his saddle pony.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Jim Tait, who went onto his homestead near Oyen to do his seeding, is still in the hospital at Alaska.

Last year we used to sing "It ain't goin' to rain no more." This year the refrain seems to be "Singing in the rain."

Our telephone service which has been out of commission for some time is all fixed up and we are able to speak to the neighbors again.

Burnside Baseball Club is holding a dance in Lone Pine Hall on Friday evening, June 17th. As the funds of the club are very low it is hoped there will be a good attendance, the boys needing a little encouragement also a little cash to carry on with.

No one need go to Africa to meet wild animals and have the thrill of being chased by them. The two young ladies who made record time crossing Mr. Jenkins' pasture recently, with a wild pig in pursuit are a good example. A waiting saddle-horse furnished refuge just in time.

A very sad death occurred Monday evening of this week, when Emery, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Soderberg, passed away after a short illness of diphtheria. The funeral on Tuesday afternoon was private, as the family are in quarantine. We extend our sincerest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Soderberg, who have had more than their share of bereavements, having lost three of their five children.

Mountain View Notes

The W.I.G.C. will meet at the home of Mrs. Blain on Saturday at 2:15 p.m.

Church services have commenced at Community Hall each Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mushrooms seem to be rather plentiful in spots, and some members of the community have enjoyed several dishes of them.

The recent torrential rains have at last abated and on Sunday King Sol held sway, much to the joy of many who were compelled to rescue young turkeys and chickens and house same in granaries pro tem. The countryside, however, has an emerald appearance and everyone is looking forward to a bumper crop, above all to a fair price for same.

"Just fancy, eggs five cents a dozen" was an exclamation heard by a resident last week. A 12-dozen crate now brings 60c, and when one trades this in on groceries, what can one purchase? Hard lines on farmers, yet in some sections of Calgary they are selling for 15 cents a dozen, according to word received Saturday. It requires a great deal of tall thinking these days to endeavor to make both ends meet.

Quit Wrangling.

One of the softball games played on Monday evening was completely spoiled by the wrangling that took place.

Both spectators and most of the players were "ragged" at both the disputing and the language used. The umpire is there to make the decisions and the players should be sportsmen enough to abide by them.

One or two grouchy players can spoil the game for all the rest.
